Expressivism, Pragmatism and Representationalism By Huw Price, Simon Blackburn, Robert Brandom, Paul Horwich, Michael Williams

Pragmatists have traditionally been enemies of representationalism but friends of naturalism, when naturalism is understood to pertain to human subjects, in the sense of Hume and Nietzsche. In this volume Huw Price presents his distinctive version of this traditional combination, as delivered in his René Descartes Lectures at Tilburg University in 2008. Price contrasts his view with other contemporary forms of philosophical naturalism, comparing it with other pragmatist and neo-pragmatist views such as those of Robert Brandom and Simon Blackburn. Linking their different 'expressivist' programmes, Price argues for a radical global expressivism that combines key elements from both. With Paul Horwich and Michael Williams, Brandom and Blackburn respond to Price in new essays. Price replies in the closing essay, emphasising links between his views and those of Wilfrid Sellars. The volume will be of great interest to advanced students of philosophy of language and metaphysics.

Editorial Review

Review

"A fascinating set of lectures, commentaries, and replies. I have learned much from the arguments that Huw Price and the commentators advance."

Allan Gibbard, University of Michigan

"Price's book is a refreshing and commendable addition to recent work on representationalism. His arguments are novel and forceful."

Analysis and Metaphysics

"If I could make it required reading for all first-year philosophy graduate students, I would."

Joshua Gert, Mind
